The time is complete in all its brightness, thus giving you the opportunity to secure the golden offering. Now is the time to buy, so I intend to never let my stock, comprising every item in my store, with the exception of some open in the place this morning he recovered the safe door open and a brace and two chisel lying on the floor. He immediately informed his father, who directed him to call the police. There is no record of either the safe or from this and the next morning in which the job was done, it is supposed that professional cracksmen had it hand in it. Nor were there any signs to indicate that a forced entrance had been effected through any of the doors or windows.

The supposition is that the burglars were concealed in the store at the time it was broken into, and remained there until immediately after the doors were locked. It is also probable that a key might have been the means of entrance. The police will make a thorough investigation of the matter.

Amusements.

"Camping" will be presented by the Boston Idiots at the National to night.

A large and enthusiastic audience heard Josef Hofmann, the pianist, at the meeting yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Langtry was among the distinguished persons present.

The second concert of the Richard Wagner festival will take place at the Unitarian Church this evening.

The third concert will occur February 10, and the fourth March 22.

The box sheet is now open for the sale of tickets for the engagement of next week at Harris' Theatre of Mattie Vickers, who will present "Jacqueline" the first half of the week and "Cherub" the last three days.

By the Boston Symphony Orchestra is a rare treat at any time, but the programme rendered yesterday afternoon at Albaugh's Open-House was particularly interesting. It embraced "The beautiful Melancholiette by Mendelssohn," "Schubert's momentous sonata with Fraulein Ans Der Ohe as soloist," selections from Wagner's "Siegfried" and "Götterdämmerung" and a symphony by A. Dvorak. The Wagner was particularly fine. The playing of Fraulein Ans Der Ohe in the Schubert concerto was simply magnificent. Playing, indeed, but one thing to be said, "The Devil's Concerto." The Devil's symphony is a comparatively new work and was heard for the first time in Washington. It proved a very beautiful and interesting composition.

Tickets are now on sale at Ellis' music store for Mrs. Scott-Siddon's recitations at the Congregational Church Monday evening, the 16th.
